

EU Environmental Law and the Internal Market

Nicolas de Sadeleer, Jean Monnet Chair in EU Law at Saint-Louis University, Brussels
Preface by Allan Rosas, Judge, CJEU

- The first sustained analysis of the intersection between the EU's environmental law and policy and the EU's commitment to a free, competitive internal market
- Offers a clear explanation of the legal framework for environmental protection in EU Treaty and secondary law
- Analyses how environmental concerns and environmental law have impacted on the operation of the internal market

Written by one of the foremost experts in the area, this book challenges current thought and re-assesses the rules of economic integration within an environmental framework. In so doing, it bridges the gap between environmental and trade law and provides a systematic, robust, and practically workable analytical framework of the conflicts opposing rapidly evolving environmental and climate change measures and internal market as well as competition rules.

Readership: Academics, scholars, students, and practitioners including in-house lawyers in the fields of European law, environmental law, competition law, and internal market law.
